

Frostville Village Church

*Looking for a unique and special place for your ceremony?
How about a park like setting located within a historical village.*

*Olmsted Historical Society Frostville Village Museum
24101 Cedar Point Road North Olmsted, Ohio 44070*

The Frostville Village Museum is located in the Rocky River Reservation Cleveland Metroparks and consists of a church, four homes, out house, general store, events barn, display barn.; and is operated by the members of the Olmsted Historical Society.

The Frostville Village Church is an 1847's restored church, formerly known as the North Olmsted Congregational Church (aka The Barton Road Church). The building was moved in June 2005 from the corner of Lorain and Barton Road to Frostville Museum in the Rocky River Reservation Cleveland Metroparks. Over the next three years it was lovingly restored by the members and volunteers of the Olmsted Historical Society. On August 3rd, 2008 the re-dedication ceremony was held and two weeks later we had our first wedding.

We offer a unique and pleasant experience for your ceremony. You are welcome to take outside pictures anywhere within the village. For an additional $25 per building you can have pictures taken inside any of the historical homes.

*The Frostville Village Church is a non-denominational church.
It is available for the following type ceremonies:*
